

Meet Author Joyce Litoff

JOYCE LITOFF is a life-long resident of Chicago, and a world citizen at heart. She is a communications professional who has won multiple awards for her writing, podcasting and video work. Joyce sees storytelling as central to all of these efforts and her interests have led her to recently delve into memoir and live-stage storytelling. Her preferred genres of writing include Reportage, creative non-fiction, live storytelling

Joyce works in the Office of Communications at the US Baha'i National Center. The office is responsible for the content of bahai.us, the public website of the Baha'i Faith, The American Baha'i magazine, the US Baha'i News, an electronic newsletter, and special publications.

Joyce has worked in a variety of publishing, media production, and public relations positions in the course of her career, both in corporations and in the not-for-profit sector. She holds a degree in Journalism from the University of Illinois. Joyce and her husband, Dan Litoff, have been married for 30-plus years and live in a lovingly restored arts and crafts bungalow in Chicago's North Center neighborhood.

Joyce's current projects include Ongoing coverage for The American Baha'i and US Baha'i News and crafting a memoir for live-stage storytelling. You may access some of Joyce's other works by clicking on the following links:
